COUNCIL LETS SEWER CONTRACT;
STREET ORDINANCES GO OVER.City Fathers Listen to Petition of Citizens and Transact
Much Business at Regular Session Last Night.NEW FIRE ORDINANCE PASSEDJones Brothers of Pittsburgh Lowest Bidder for Sewer Work and C. W.
Bettler Got Side Walk Contract.
All But Four Members Present.

The bi-monthly session of Town Council took on the appearance of a mass meeting last night. There was a full attendance of members save four absentees. Burtmore, Schenck, Girard and Stoner, with a large gathering of citizens in the background. There was no acrimonious debate, not a ripple to disturb the routine of business. A new fire ordinance, repealing all others and effecting a number of changes was passed. The Tenth street ordinance went back to the Borough Solicitors to be rewritten. The ordinances for the opening of Edna and Eleventh street also were held over until the next meeting. Jones Brothers of Pittsburgh were awarded the sewer contract on the lowest bid. C. W. Bettler landed the sidewalk laying contract against C. C. Gray. For the sewer contract four other bids besides that of Jones Brothers were presented.

Ferd. Muckley, who is in Connellville to promote the location of a silk mill, was introduced by Solicitor Goldsmith. He stated briefly the object of his mission to Connellville. The mill would bring $400,000 a year in wages to the town and would cost $600,000 to establish here, he said. He appeared before Council, he stated, to get some expression as to whether or not Council would exempt the enterprise from taxes for a period of five years if it locates here. The sentiment of Council was unanimous that there would be no trouble on that score if the proposition is a substantial one and is accepted.

A committee of the School Board, Joseph Metzger, J. S. Darr and J. A. Armstrong, appeared to urge street improvements about the Third and Fifth Ward schools. Conditions at the Fifth Ward school, they stated, were especially bad. The children going there are compelled to walk along the South Connellville car tracks going to and coming from school. Improvement of the sidewalk about the Third Ward school was also strongly urged. Later the whole matter was referred to the Street Committee for investigation.

Alvial delegations of property owners along Patterson avenue appeared to have a sidewalk dispute settled. The property owners on the West Side of Patterson avenue east of Pittsburgh street objected to having their sidewalk in the middle of the 15 feet allotted for sidewalk, while the property owners on the east side of the street made a plea to have the sidewalk laid thus and presenting a petition providing for the work in that manner. When the matter came up at the conclusion of the meeting it was disposed of by directing that the sidewalks be laid in the middle of the 15-foot space. Some of the property owners on the west side of the street have their excavation and walks down, but not in conformity with the new petition and resolution of Council and will therefore be compelled to change them.

Alex. Hood petitioned Council to repair the damage that has been done the Hood property on Peach street and Meadow Lane owing to a change in the grade of Meadow Lane. It was referred to the Street Committee.

Chairman W. H. Thomas had no report to make on finances. Chairman Cyphers of the Street Committee reported that no attention with one or two exceptions, had been paid to the instructions given property owners on this side of the river to lay sidewalks, while practically all of those directed to lay walks on the West Side have complied with the instructions. After it had been decided to let the two bids in the hands of the committee go over until the next meeting Councilman McCormick offered a motion that the bids be opened and let. C. W. Bettler got the contract at 18 cents a square foot against a bid of 19 cents presented by C. C. Gray.

Main street bid on the West Side came in for some discussion. Councilman Duggan said it was in such bad shape that an accident occurred damages could be collected from the borough. Borough Engineer Hogg will have all the data on hand to proceed with improvement of the street at the next meeting of Council. A petition for the paving of South alley from South Prospect street to Mountain alley was presented and referred to the Street Committee. This work will likely be done. Captain E. Dunn and others made strong pleas for it on behalf of the German Lutheran Church congregation. It was the conensus of opinion in Council that the church is entitled to the improvement. Chairman Dean of the Police Committee told Council what the committee had done in star chamber session Monday night. No criticism was offered against the police, all of them giving satisfactory explanations of their whereabouts during the fire at the Colonial last Sunday morning.

The action of the Public Safety Committee in accepting the resignation of Fire Chief Martin was endorsed. A petition for a light at North Arch street and Witter avenue was quickly laid on the table.

Chairman Duggan had no report on water. He passed it up with the comment that the question was on the argument list.

When the Tenth street ordinance was read it was learned that the ordinance had been written from the old description for the street, while the blue prints showed that a new agreement had been entered into on the route of the new street. The ordinance will be ready at the next meeting of Council. The Edna and Eleventh street ordinance went over with it.

The new fire ordinance raises the salaries of the four paid members to $80 a month and the chief to $65. There will be four companies, the Association, Pinnacle, South Side and West Side. Each will be composed of ten or more members. The paid department will have four or more members, at the discretion of Council. The chief will be elected by Council. The disposition appears to be to secure the services of an experienced outside man. However, the limitation of $85 on the salary may prevent this. The fire companies will get $125 a year for 15 men and profit at that rate to the companies with more than 35 members. The whole department will be under the direction of the Public Safety Committee and Town Council, with the fire chief in direct charge. A suggestion that the term of the fire chief, one year, be made two or three years was not adopted.

Councilman J. M. Gray offered a motion that a real and hose be immediately placed on the South Side. Councilman McCormick informed Council that he had already taken the equipment from the Second Ward and placed it on the South Side. The former portion of town is easier reached by the department than the South Side, so the Second Ward will be without equipment until it is provided. The lack of hose and ladders was brought up by Councilmen Branham and McCormick. The outcome was a motion to order 1,000 feet of new hose. For the present no ladders will be ordered. The old ones have been in service for 25 years and are not safe.

The bid of Jones Brothers of Pittsburgh for the sewer work was more than 20 per cent lower than the average of the other four bids. It was as follows for laying the sewers complete, the price being based on linear feet:

15-inch pipe.....	75
12-inch pipe.....	70
10-inch pipe.....	65
8-inch pipe.....	60
Man holes each.....	$25.00
Lamp holes each.....	7.00

They agree to complete the work in two months and give the American Surety Company of Pittsburgh as their surety. The other bidders were: P. J. Flynn and Hiramman & Guard, of Connellville; the Westmoreland Construction Company of Greensburg; and J. I. Dick of Scotland.

A petition of H. S. Speer asking that Council reimburse him for a sewer he built and claimed the borough has been using on East Francis avenue was laid on the table. New regulations of the Board of Health made a new sewer necessary, which Mr. Speer stated, cost him $60. Under an old agreement of Council Mr. Speer holds that Council should reimburse him for the sewer. Council intimated that no action would be taken on the petition.

The Borough Solicitors will be asked for a decision on the right to chop trees down or the limbs off so the arc lights can shine at night. The matter was brought up by Councilman Shuman.

Chairman Cyphers, of the Street Committee, informed Council that an inspection of the Johnston avenue paving had been made with the Borough Engineer. The work was found satisfactory and accepted. Council endorsed the committee's action.

Just before adjournment at 10:30, Councilmen Duggan, Dunn, Thomas, Reynolds and Willard were appointed a committee to attend the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. this morning, when the proposition of locating a silk manufacturing plant in Connellville was presented to the citizens of town.

SILK MILL PROPOSITION
PRESENTED TO CITIZENS.Promoter Says It Would Cost $600,000 to Bring Here and Would Disburse $400,000 Annually; Sites Offered, Committees Investigating

A representative gathering of business men was present this morning in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. to hear Ferdinand Muckley outline his proposition for the location of a silk mill in Connellville. The United Textile Company, which Mr. Muckley represents, asks that bonds to the extent of $250,000 be taken up by the citizens, a site be given and that the company be exempted from taxation for a period of five years.

Mr. Muckley in his opening remarks stated that he represented D. G. Dory, an independent manufacturer of silks, the value of which was $4,000,000 per year and that he desired to know what the town was willing to do. Other towns, eight in number, he said were anxious to have the silk mill located within their territory and were offering especially attractive inducements. The company, he said, was only asking certain small advantages and that the bond issue would be guaranteed by the property and the personal guarantee of W. G. Dory, approximately $100,000 more than the bond issue. The plant, he said, would pay out annually $400,000 in wages and $130,000 for other supplies. A reserve fund of 10 per cent, was all that was to be taken from the earnings by the company and all other profits would be returned to those interested. A building 500x500 was necessary to conduct the business.

Mr. Muckley, in setting forth the proposition, stated that there was nothing particularly interesting about Connellville, but its natural advantages. The reason for locating silk mills at various points was chiefly a matter of labor. To locate all silk mills in one section would not be feasible, he said, because it would be impossible to secure the help necessary.

DR. COOK'S PROOFS
TO THE SCIENTISTSWill Not Be Ready for Presentation for Two Months at Least.

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Dr. Cook said today it would be at least two months before he gets his data ready for presentation to the scientific bodies for investigation. He said the proof of his claims are not dependent on Henry Whitney as the data in the latter's possession is duplicated by what Cook has.

Regarding the interview of Mat Henson with the Eskimos who said Cook had not been outside sight of land, the latter said, he is not surprised as he asked the natives to keep his secret.

United Press Telegram.
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—James A. Patten arrived here today and announced his intention of bulling the cotton market. He declares his plans are based on a general increase in demand for cotton goods which must follow the tariff on woolen goods. He says more cotton will be used the world over and for many different purposes.

Files Suit for Divorce.
UNIONTOWN, Sept. 22.—Harry Burch of Connellville this morning filed suit for a divorce from Elaine Burch. William Lohr was named as correspondent.

The couple were married in Connellville in 1907, but have been separated since last May.

which consists for the most part of girls. In this section, he found that girls could be had in the town while the outlying sections could. In the event that there was a shortage furnished hundreds more.

Only natural advantages of locating the mill here were taken up and summarized as follows:

Cheap fuel, the gas rates being lower than in Ohio or the producing fields. Cheap and abundant electric power. Splendid railroad facilities, including the town by having main line facilities.

An adequate and cheap water supply. Muckley began his talk with a severe arraignment of the business men of the town. "When you touch a business man's profit, you touch him right. This is a business where you touch his pocketbook and it develops what is in him. Coming from the busy town of Allentown I was never so struck in my life by the business conditions here. Every natural advantage offers for a factory industry here. Allentown was never touched by the panic. There are 6,000 girls working in the silk mills here and 2,000 more working at other industries. There are signs of wealth, health and prosperity there.

"Do you people of Connellville want to make a town like Allentown, or continue on with your coke business. It has left you already. Coke is the product which created Connellville and the coke industry has been the cause of your decay. It has moved away from you. There will be a decrease in real estate, in rents, decrease in business in every way. Do you want to go up or do you want to go down. I was here with a proposition before which was not taken kindly to and as a result Spring City has the very plant that would have come to Connellville. They gave them everything there, the old tin mill building and five acres of land. This site was preferred to both Uniontown and Connellville."

The question of a site seemed to be one of the most important, the money question having been almost conclusively settled by the bankers present, who stated that if the proposition was all that was claimed for it they did not see any reason why a bond issue of $500,000 could not be raised.

P. Bufano suggested a site on the Davidson property near the Yough Brewery, while John Guller offered five or six acres between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania railroads in the valley above Greensburg near Fayette station. Guller offered his property free while Attorney E. C. Higbee, who is representing Mrs. Jean H. Davidson, said that he did not have the power to make a similar proposition, but that he felt that she would be willing to make certain concessions after hearing of the plans of the company. The Davidson property seemed to be favored by the company on account of its location in connection with the railroads.

A committee of all the cashiers of all the banks and the treasurer of the Title & Trust Company was appointed to investigate the financial standing of W. G. Dory and also to look into any other details that the financial end of the proposition may require. The cashiers are to see to the United Press Telegram.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 22.—The report that Harry Whitney had written a letter to a friend stating that Dr. Cook discovered the North Pole was denied today. The letter stated briefly that Whitney met Dr. Cook and has some of his instruments and data. There was no mention of discovery.

Whitney may have refrained from breaking the news since Dr. Cook requested him to keep the discovery a secret until he reached civilization.

REV. WILSON RESIGNSAs Pastor of the Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian Church.

The Westmoreland Presbytery of the United Presbyterian Church met yesterday in the Greensburg Presbyterian Church. Moderator R. C. Betts of Bradlock presided. Rev. W. J. McMichael of Greensburg, was appointed chairman of the commission to install the Rev. A. H. Carson at Ligondier.

The resignation of the Rev. H. S. Wilson of Mt. Pleasant was placed on the table until the December meeting. Rev. J. A. LaClere was ordained as pastor of Jeannette congregation.

financial end of the deal. E. R. Floto of the Yough bank stated that he was not authorized to speak upon the financial assistance his bank would give, but that it was a matter for the Board of Directors to settle. He could not, however, see why the banks could not give the proper assistance where the security was all right. Eugene T. Norton of the First National Bank said that he believed that the financial end would be all right if the proper security was furnished, but he, like Mr. Floto, wanted to have an investigation of the man and affairs of a silk mill before the guarantee was given.

A committee composed of E. T. Norton, P. Bufano and Burgess J. L. Evans was appointed to inquire into a site for the proposed industry. The committee will report at a meeting of the business men of the town Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Before adjournment it was specifically stated that the meeting was to be one including all business men, members of the Merchants Association and members of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Committee appointed by the Town Council last night is to take up the matter of exonerating the company from taxes for five years and this committee is also expected to report with the other committees at the meeting on Thursday evening.

Worth Kilpatrick, President of the Second National Bank, presided at the meeting, while J. Donald Porter was Secretary.

THE MURDERER IS IN JAILDenies His Guilt, But County Detective Has Eye Witnesses—Principals
Colored Men Who Are Well Known
About Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 22.—As the result of a quarrel at Thompson Works No. 1, about midnight last night, William Swan, colored, is dead, and Cary Swan, his brother, in the Uniontown jail charged with murder. The quarrel started in house No. 14 and resulted over a quarrel between William Swan and Maria Swan, the wife of Cary Swan. The latter interferred shortly afterwards and ordered his brother out of the house. A few words followed and Cary Swan kicked William down a flight of stairs. Several parties who witnessed the fight stated that Cary followed William out into the street and slashed him on the right arm with a razor. Death resulted in about an hour from loss of blood. Dr. Duff was immediately summoned, but Swan was dead on his arrival.

Cary Swan was arrested this morning at house No. 47, by County Detective Alex. McBeth and brought to Uniontown about 11 o'clock. Deputy Coroner C. E. Ellis held an inquest into Swan's death and ordered that Cary Swan's murderer, be held for December court. The coroner's jury was composed of James McGill, Milton Lawrence, W. J. Christ, James Herrington and M. McDaniel Blerer of Uniontown, charging Swan with murder. Swan denies the charge but County Detective McBeth stated this morning that he already had several good witnesses. When it was discovered that William Swan was seriously injured, there was a scattering of the negroes. Several white men who were attracted by William Swan's screams for help arrived in time to save him from another attack.

The Swan men are well known in Uniontown having spent the greater part of their lives there. About two months ago they moved to Thompson Works No. 1 where they secured employment.

LITTLE HOPE HELD OUT FOR VICTIMSOf Davidson Mine Accident, Condition of Both at Hospital Being Most Critical.

Adolph Rotlier, who was injured in the Davidson mine Tuesday morning, was removed to the hospital yesterday afternoon and his condition has become rapidly worse. Paralysis has set in and he is now unable to use his hands. His relatives fear the worst, while the physicians have little or no hope of saving his life.

On another cot in the same institution his lifetime companion and relative Frank Spittler who was injured with him, is also lying ground in the fight for life. Spittler has a better chance, the doctors say, than Rotlier although his condition is most serious. Both men are suffering with broken backs.

WORTHLESS FORMULA
BUTTERMORE SAYSWas Palmed Off on the United States
Aluminum Company—Equity Suit Result.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 22.—William T. Buttermore of Connellville has filed an equity suit against the United States Aluminum Company and the Chemical Reduction Company. Buttermore is a stockholder in the former company and some time ago the Aluminum company erected a plant in Bullock township. It seems the Chemical Reduction Company gave to the Aluminum company a formula for making aluminum out of clay.

Buttermore claims that the formula is worthless as claims that the Aluminum company is now insolvent.

Bower-Fornwall.
A very pretty but quiet home wedding was that of Miss Elizabeth Fornwall and Harry Bower, which was solemnized last evening at the home of the bride on Fourth street, West Side. Rev. E. B. Burgess, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, of which the bride is a member, officiated. There were no attendants and only the immediate relatives of the young couple witnessed the ceremony. Golden rods and ferns formed the attractive decorations in the dining room and parlor.

The ceremony was followed by a well appointed wedding dinner of 20 covers. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Fornwall, well known residents of the West Side, and is a graduate of the West Side High School. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bower of Johnston avenue. The out of town guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James Fornwall of Uniontown, and Mrs. Roy Van Sicken of Somerset. Mr. and Mrs. Bower left this morning for Somerset, where they will spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Van Sicken.

MILLIONS OF MILES IN RAILROAD TICKETS

Would Be Lopped Off If New Form Suggested by Passenger Man Is Adopted.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Millions of miles would be lopped off the railroad ticket lugged through Chicago and other railroad centers by the traveling public if the proposed plan to abolish coupon tickets on all lines in the United States, Canada and Mexico on adopted. The plan provides for a definite line of action. Not less than 12 feet 2 inches of ticket is acquired by the tourist on a trip from New York to California and return by a sightseeing route while one may cross the Atlantic with a piece of pasteboard not more than three inches long. In fact the through ticket form is no less than 62 inches long, of which 20 inches are devoted to the contract of purchase. To this form are pasted during the course of the journey a collection of two-inch coupons that grow to a bewildering length. This reform outlined by George T. Bell, passenger traffic manager of the Grand Trunk and Grand Trunk Pacific systems in his presidential address to the American Association of Passenger and Ticket Agents, has been considered by the International Association of Ticket Agents and the Canadian Ticket Agents' Association.

THE BOROUGH LOCKUP HAS NO PRISONERS

It Has Been Without a Single Occupant Since Tuesday Morning.

The Borough baffle is empty. It has been without an occupant since yesterday morning. Burgess Evans came down this morning early to take a look about and was surprised to find that he had no prisoners. The last prisoner paid his way out yesterday morning, since which time the community has been good. The increased demand for laborers has resulted in many of the loners going to work and a corresponding decrease in the number of arrests.

The officers say that many of the old timers will arrive on pay day, while the Burgess contention still smiles over the goodness of the town.

A QUEER BANK.

Woman Selects a Novel Place For Her Cash and Loans It.

According to a story, which Margaret Clifton, of Philadelphia, told Justice Stockhouse, she had been banking her surplus cash in the "cat" which she used to swell the size of her pompadour and she had been assaulted and robbed of all her money, amounting to $180. The justice very properly told her that people who select such insecure places for their funds may expect to be surprised from their coin, sooner or later, and that the best place for her money was a good bank. What is true in Philadelphia is true in Conneltsville. The safest place for your money is a good bank, the First National, for instance, the oldest and strongest National Bank in town, where money is absolutely safe and a 4 per cent interest paid on all savings accounts.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER.

For Which Two Men Have Already Been Hanged.

INDIANA, Pa., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Frank Veltro, charged with the murder of Robert Foster, a partially blind pensioner, for which crime Joe Volter and Bruno Carbone were hanged, was acquitted today.

The jury was out two days. Veltro always denied any part in the crime or profiting from the $600 taken from the pensioner.

They were sisters-in-law and reasonably well disposed toward each other. One was the mother of George, aged six months, and the other was the mother of Maria, aged six months and four days. It was impossible that a slight parental rivalry should be altogether concealed.

"Maria does not seem to grow very fast," said the mother of George, with a suggestion of condescension in her tones. "George is much taller" (being measured in inches).

"Perhaps he is," replied the mother of Maria coldly. "But Maria weighs more."

"Oh, well," responded the sister-in-law, with a smile of black bred superiority, "of course I should not wish George to be gross."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ROUTINE OF THE COURTS.

Three Wills Disposing of Estates Are Probated.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 22.—The will of the late Mary L. Miller, of Smithfield, was probated September 16. After providing for the debts against the estate and for the paying of the funeral expenses, the balance is bequeathed to her husband, Isaac Miller. At his death the estate is to be divided equally between Albert C. Newton and William Sherman and Dempsey Miller.

The will of James Reynolds, late of South Brownsville, was filed yesterday for probate. After the funeral expenses and debts have been paid out of money deposited in the Second National bank, the widow, Mrs. Katherine Reynolds, and daughter, Julia, are bequeathed the balance on deposit. The interest of said deposit is sufficient for their maintenance and only shall the interest be paid them. Otherwise as much of the principal as is needed for their maintenance.

The will of the late Sarah J. Dutton of Uniontown was probated yesterday. After providing for the payment of debts and the erection of a tombstone, a daughter, Katie G. Dutton, is bequeathed $1,000 providing such sum remains after the payment of debts and funeral expenses. The daughter is bequeathed all the household goods she may desire; the balance to be divided as equally as possible between the sisters and sisters-in-law. To Sara Dutton Bailey is given a gold watch. To Katie Dutton is also bequeathed the income of all the real and residue of the estate, both real and personal. The court made an order directing that the county pay the costs in the case of the Commonwealth against Omer Stillman.

The bond of David C. Miller, tax collector of Saltlick township, for $5,000 was approved by the court. George S. Muller and Jacob Imhoff are the bondsmen.

The court appointed C. P. Simpson, Samuel Foster and Albert S. Friend viewfinders to pass upon a bridge over Champion creek near Indian Head in Saltlick township.

Short P. A. Johns and Deputy Joe King yesterday took the following prisoners to their destination: Harry Fee, larceny, to the workhouse for one year; William Neal, who attacked Constable Churns with a pair of scissors, in the Western Penitentiary for a three years term; and Alice Barnes to the Reform School at Morgantown.

POLITICS LIVELY IN WESTMORELAND

Judge Duty Out For Third Term With Charles C. Crowell as Opponent.

WESTMORELAND, Pa., Sept. 22.—Westmoreland county is once more experiencing the excitement incident to a decennial judicial contest. It is a straightaway fight between the Republican and Democratic organizations, without any confusing side issues. Even that nightmare of both political parties—local option—cannot be catapulted into the campaign, as both candidates occupy the same position relative to the liquor question. Hence the local option voter must support the Prohibition candidate or toss a copper for choice between the Republican and Democratic nominees. Assistant District Attorney Charles C. Crowell is the Republican nominee, while Judge Lucien V. Doty, the Democratic candidate, is before the voters for a third term. Twenty years ago, when Judge Doty was first elected to the bench, the Republican and Democratic parties in Westmoreland were more evenly matched as to voting strength than they are now. Then the judge defeated his opponent by a majority of 2,150 votes. Ten years later the Republicans were able to make a much better showing, though the judge was re-elected by a margin of 170 votes.

However, it is not the intention to assert that the Republican ratio of gain during the past decade will make it impossible for Judge Doty to succeed himself. Party lines are not always as closely drawn in judicial contests as they are in others, this applying more particularly to the individual who feels a greater freedom in deciding whom he will support for judicial honors. Judge Doty has made a splendid record on the bench.

The principal contest other than that of the Judgeship is for District Attorney. William T. Doni, Sr., is the Republican candidate, and T. Hilary Keenan is the Democratic nominee. The Democrats did not nominate candidates for Prothonotary or Clerk of Courts. Prohibitionists have a complete ticket in the field.

AWFUL RASH ALL OVER BOY'S BODY

Weeping Eczema Kept Spreading on Little Sufferer—A Score of Treatments Prove Dismal Failures—Grateful Father Tells of

CURE ACHIEVED BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"It gave me great pleasure to express my deep gratitude in appreciation of the invaluable benefit that the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Remedies did my little boy. He had an awful rash all over his body and the doctor said it was eczema. It was terrible and used to weep awfully. Any place the water went it would form another sore and it would become crusted. A score or more physicians failed utterly and diametrically in their efforts to remedy the trouble. Then I was told to use the Cuticura Remedies. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap, a box of Cuticura Ointment, and before we had used half the Remedies I could see a change in him. In about two months he was entirely well. When people see him now they ask, 'What did you get to cure your baby?' and all we can say is, 'It was the Cuticura Remedies.' So in a Cuticura will always have firm and warm friends. (Enclosed are the original letters received from Mahanoy City, Pa., September 26 and November 4, 1907.)"

MILLIONS OF PEOPLE

Rely on Cuticura Remedies.
Millions of the world's best people use Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, assisted, when necessary, by Cuticura Remedies (liquid or pills) for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for eczema, irritations and inflammations, for cleansing the scalp of crabs, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for baby rashes, itches and chafes, and many sensitive, anti-eczema purposes which readily suggest themselves to women, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery. Guaranteed absolutely pure. Cuticura Soap (the Cuticura Ointment, Pills, and Remedies) are sold everywhere. Write for free literature to J. C. Kennerly, Inc., 157 Columbia Ave., Boston, Mass. DEATHS.

Mrs. Mary D. Long.
Mrs. Mary D. Long, aged 71 years, seven months and 14 days, died last night at 7:10 o'clock at her home on Tenth street. Mrs. Long's death was due to pneumonia which developed from an abscess on her lung. She had been confined to her bed for about three weeks. Mrs. Long was born and raised at Normalville, Springfield township. She was a daughter of Dr. A. J. McCoy, deceased, and Mrs. Susan Barnes McCoy. About 20 years ago she was married to William Long of Conneltsville. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Normalville. Mrs. Long was widely known and her many friends will regret to learn of her untimely death.

Mrs. Long is transferred to the West Penn Railways Company.

Deceased was survived by her husband and two children, Homer and Catherine Long. Their mother and the following brothers and sisters also survive: Mrs. Elizabeth Haught of Meadmore, Pa.; Mrs. Matilda Knoser of Conneltsville, Pa.; Mrs. Laura Fischer of Lebanon, Pa.; Mrs. James McCoy of Mt. Run, Marshall of Hillsdale, and John C. McCoy of Conneltsville. Funeral from her late home Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in Hill Grove cemetery.

Martha Jane Sweeney.
SMITHFIELD, Sept. 20.—Martha Jane Sweeney, wife of Daniel B. Sweeney, aged 6 years, 11 months and 1 day, died in East Georges township Sunday, September 19. Death was sudden and unexpected.

Deceased was active about her household duties and in her usual health, when a milk creek fell from her hands. She fell to the floor dying almost instantly. Cause of death was heart trouble. Interment in the Fairchance Cemetery this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Jimmy—Well, I might like to go back to school as well as Earle Evans does if you'd trained me as his mother trained him.
Mother—How was that?
Jimmy—Well, I liked to go every day so I had to be glad to go back.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

Houston, Texas.—"When I first began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had been sick for three years with female troubles, chronic dyspepsia, and a liver trouble. I had tried several doctor's medicines, but nothing did me any good."

"For three years I lived on medicines and thought I would never get well, when I read an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and was advised to try it."

"My husband got me one bottle of the Compound, and it did me so much good I continued its use. I am now a well woman and enjoy the best of health."

"I advise all women suffering from such troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. They won't regret it, for it will surely cure you."—Mrs. Bessie L. Hicks, 310 Cleveland St., Houston.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it did Mrs. Hicks.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G., SEP. 22, 1909.

THE SIK-MILL AND THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The silk mill proposition brings Conneltsville to a realization of the value of a Chamber of Commerce conducted on the lines planned when the present committee body was formed.

The plan contemplated an industrial fund guaranteed by the members, in proportion to their ability and their interest in Conneltsville, for the purpose of taking care of any industrial proposition which looked inviting. It also provided an active data-collecting committee, and a Secretary and assistants for doing the clerical, and to a large extent the field work, of investigating industrial propositions and gathering information concerning costs and other matters relative to particular lines of manufacture.

Had this machinery of the Chamber of Commerce been in good working order, it would have been able to answer most of the inquiries made at this morning's meeting in a satisfactory manner. We would have been advised concerning the cost of silk mills, their capitalization, their advisability as business propositions generally.

As it is, we are obliged to take the silk mill proposition under advisement until all these inquiries can be made. Then we must consider the matter of financing the deal, and the question of procuring a site and paying for it. We work under a handicap which we would not be under if the Williamsport plan had been carried to a successful conclusion in the organization of the Chamber of Commerce, and if that body had devoted its energies to locating new industries, adding new business, new population and new wealth to the town.

We do not mention these matters in any spirit of recrimination or complaining criticism, but only to again Point the Way.

THE DUTIES OF POLICEMEN.

The suggestion that policemen should "sleep with one eye open" is not to be taken too literally. It does not mean that policemen should not sleep at all, nor that they should never close but one optic, but that they should be vigilant while on duty. The policeman is presumed to be superhuman, but he isn't. He is only human. He must sleep like the rest of us.

But he should have certain hours of service, and he should not sleep on duty, that is to say he should always be alert and active. He should not loaf about the barrooms, nor stand on the corners except when specially designated to serve there. In the absence of special orders, his duty in values constant moving about within and upon his beat.

One of the chief troubles with the Conneltsville police seems to be a lack of system. The problem of how to distribute the police in order to best attain the highest measure of protection to all portions of the town in proportion to the relative importance of their needs is one which has always been quite puzzling to the authorities.

With the proper effort, however, it can be worked out in a fairly satisfactory manner.

STRAW HATS AND AMERICAN FREEDOM.

The idea that there is a blinding custom or some color of law which justifies one man in saying that another shall not wear his straw hat after September 15th, is a persistent delusion. An American citizen may wear whatever headgear he pleases any season of the year he likes without let or hindrance, or he may go bareheaded if he chooses.

The custom of invading the sanctity of a man's headgear originated on the stock exchanges, where the financial gamblers spend their time preying upon each other and the public, and their unlawful assaults upon each other's hats at certain seasons of the year are not more regardless of personal rights than most of their business conduct.

The sensible man wears a straw hat when the weather is warm because such a hat is more comfortable. He will continue to be sensible by regulating his hats according to the weather, however defiant it may be of a fool custom set afoot by a pack of ruffians.

We hope that Justice Frank Miller will continue to uphold the freedom of American citizenship, as well as the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth, by wearing his straw hat until after the November election, if it pleases him to do so.

The Conneltsville movement looking toward the rehabilitation of the fire department is timely and commendable, especially that portion which aims at the acquisition of new equipment in the shape of hose and ladders. The department is sensibly deficient in these respects. The fire department should have duplicate hose, and a number of sufficient size and numbers to reach the high buildings of the town. The lack of them involves a constant danger.

WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENCE.

United Press Special.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Working quietly but steadily in a little old building near the War Department in this city, the commission appointed under authority of Congress to investigate the Brownsville (Texas) shooting scrape is engaged in the last effort to prove or disprove the participation in that affair of members of the 25th colored infantry, a whole battalion of whom were discharged from the army by President Roosevelt "without honor."

This celebrated case, which formerly occupied columns of space in the newspapers and became a political issue, has apparently dropped out of the public mind and nothing has been heard of it recently. There is, however, a tremendous amount of work being done upon it and when the labors are completed it is confidently expected that the question as to "who shot up" Brownsville will be pretty clearly established and that many of the colored soldiers who are punished for their alleged "conspiracy of silence" in the absence of direct proof that they actually took part in the affray, will be exonerated.

The commission, which is composed of retired army officers of high rank, is headed by Major General S. B. Young. The recorder of the court is Captain Howland, a young officer attached to the Judge Advocate General's office, and probably no more arduous task was ever laid upon an army lawyer than that in which he is now engaged.

During the three years since the shooting occurred, there have been seven or eight separate investigations of the affair, involving with that many of the citizens of Brownsville themselves, running through several military inquiries, and ending with that made by the United States Senate under the leadership of Senator Foraker. The records of all these investigations have been made part of the records of the present court. There were 300 different witnesses examined, many of them testifying at practically all of the investigations.

Proceeding much like a Supreme Court in chambers, General Young's commission has been working all summer in sifting and arranging the testimony. Most of the preliminary work has fallen upon Recorder Howland. He has taken the testimony of each individual witness and bound it separately so as to leave in compact form everything that each has said at all of the inquiries. He has then made an abstract of all the important points in their testimony, including this with each man's record. A copy of these books is furnished to each member of the court and they have been studying them in batches.

Captain Howland has still about a month's work ahead of him in completing this preliminary work. He will probably take the court at least another month to catch up with him, so that it will be late November or early December before the commission will be ready to proceed to the next stage.

This will be the examination of witnesses. The testimony already taken is so full that it is not believed that it will be necessary to call many of them, unless it should be desired to secure an explanation of some obscure point, or apparent contradiction, in the records.

The court expects to be able to conclude its work and bring in its verdict next April; and it is safe to say that the country will be glad to know the result of the inquiry, which has been so long and so painful.

For Rent.

FOR RENT—THE BUILDINGS ON the old White Rock Distillery property, near the Young Brewery, are for rent. Any desired space will be rented at a low price. Call on Mr. W. C. ground. These buildings consist of a three-story brick and a three-story frame, each with a railroad connection. About four acres of adjacent land is available for any purposes. The frame building could be most advantageously used by any one wanting a large light space with good light, such as would be necessary for the manufacture of overalls, hose, shirts or awnings. The brick building could be used by those engaged in the manufacture of articles requiring a fire-proof building. The outside could be most advantageously used as a warehouse or lumber yard, building supplies, or small works or factories where it is desirable to have the operation close to a large population. This property is located on one of the best streets in the town, has a municipal creek running through it, has also city water, sewer and gas. The owner is very anxious to get this property occupied, and a most reasonable proposition will be made to those who become the first tenants. J. D. HOGG, Agent. 24sep24-1m

New Carpets and Rugs

(Second Floor.)
Have you visited our Carpet and Rug Department since our fall shipments have arrived? Never was there more real art and richer designs than is seen in this season's product of the loom. We are showing an attractive assortment of Velvets, Axminsters, Body Brussels, Tapestries in Rugs and Carpets that will lend much beauty to any home. Our store has always had a reputation for handling only first class floor coverings and the unusual beauty of this season's designs will make our carpets and rugs all the more desirable. If you are considering any purchase along this line, it will be to your interest to come here and make comparisons. We carry a full line and our prices are right.

Bright New Silks

While this is decidedly a plain color season, we have never in the history of our store shown such an extravagant assortment of silks. The new colorings of the season and delicate evening tints in pastel shades are here galore. All lovers of fine dress will take a special delight in calling to get a glimpse at these new goods and we will be equally pleased to show them. Let us offer suggestions for your new silk dress—your evening gown, or any garment that merits quality.

Fall Trimmings

The masterful art of Dress Trimmings has had full expression in these. Quite a departure from those of last season and decidedly more beautiful. An attempt to describe their beauty would be useless. Jet is prominent among trimmings and is shown in many new ideas. Bands, Seperable Ornamenta, Edgings, Fringe, Bubles, etc., are a few designs. Dainty and heavy embroidered bands with a touch of metal or jet are also largely shown. Our collection embraces extensive varieties from the less expensive numbers up to fine importations as high as seven dollars per yard.

Broadcloths at $1.00

Fifty inches wide and shown in a good variety of shades—mostly dark. Ordinarily the price would suggest them to be a cheap, shoddy fabric as they are not. While East we picked up the lot at a good figure and are offering them to you at a very low margin. They are special values at

THE FUNERAL OF BISHOP MILLS.

Body of Eminent United Brethren Minister Is Laid to Rest.

MANY ATTEND AT SCOTSDALE

Alleged Abductor Returns to Ohio
Without Requisition Papers and It Looks as if Bad Times Are Ahead of Him.

SCOTSDALE, Sept. 22.—The funeral services over the body of Bishop J. S. Mills of the United Brethren Church who died at his home in Annville last week, were concluded here yesterday afternoon with the burial of his body in the Scottdale Cemetery. The funeral party arrived from their home where services had been held, on the afternoon train, and were driven from the station to the cemetery. There was a large assemblage of friends and relatives and among them many ministers of the church who came from the conference in Johnstown, six of whom were pall bearers and were there to pay their respects to one that had been a great power in the church and from the experience of sorrow heard a firm friend. The floral offerings were many and beautiful ones, and these were significant of the eminence of the dead. The body was accompanied by the family who will remain here a short time, the mother being a sister of the Rev. brother of town. At the cemetery the services which were brief were conducted by Bishop T. C. Carter of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Dr. W. R. Funk of Dayton, Ohio. This locality is a United Brethren stronghold in every way and from this and the fact that his wife was a member of a local family, brought Bishop Mills to this place frequently, where he won many friends, who regret his passing. He was a big man in every way, one whose presence is missed to the world.

Taken Back to Niles.
Constable H. A. Walsh of Niles, O., arrived here yesterday afternoon and took back James Larry, aged 35, and Mary Chalmers, who it is claimed is 12 years old, but who appears and declares that she is 16. The charge against Larry is that he abducted the girl, and both of them fear Dominick Chalmers, the father of the girl, with whom Larry boarded, and left on last Thursday. The constable told the two to go back with him to Ohio and that the couple should go before the Italian priest there and be married. They had both declared that to be their intention no matter what happened, but Larry had intended to refuse to go unless requisition papers were served on him, which the constable did not happen to have. On being offered the opportunity of being married the man readily consented to go with his sweetheart. To others the constable declared that once they got Larry late Ohio they would send him to the State penitentiary at Columbus, for abduction. The man allowed himself to be apparently deceived by the wily constable for the sake of his sweetheart, but it looks as if there are bad times ahead of him.

Visited Aged Woman.
Rev. and Mrs. Archibald Auld and children, of town, and Mrs. E. C. Porter and Miss Jessie Porter, of a mile west of town, drove down to Bryan's church yesterday, to visit Mrs. Elizabeth Drum and daughters. Mrs. Drum is in her 90th year, and is failing in health.

Alex. Tennant Married.
Relatives in Irwin received a telegram from Miss Sarah George of that place yesterday that she had been married to Alexander W. Tennant at Niagara Falls, New York. Mr. Tennant, who was formerly of Scottdale, being a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tennant, pioneers of the town, lives in Wilkinsburg and for many years has been the manager of one of the biggest shoe stores in Pittsburgh. It was known that the two were engaged, but there was no suspicion of Miss George's plans, when she left home a few days ago, ostensibly to visit friends in Pittsburgh.

It seems that harmony has ceased to prevail in the Onward Stock Breeder's Association since they have their horse, a Chestnut sorrel weighing 1,200 pounds up for Constable's sale at Owens & Ferguson's livery stable next Saturday. The horse is owned by 10 members of the association and has been for a couple of years.

The Brown Candy Kitchen at the corner of Pittsburgh street and Broadway, occupying a part of the building owned by L. P. Miller, has been closed up by the latter yesterday, on account of a chain of rent, said to be quite large.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL AND ITS INFLUENCE

Organization of Bible Classes For Men and Women Has Started a Mighty Movement.

Until within the very recent past the Sunday school was looked upon as a place for the instruction of children but the advent of the Organized Adult Bible Class has changed this old fashioned notion and men and women are now found in the Sunday school in large numbers.

The organization of Bible classes for men and women has taken the form of a mighty movement in Pennsylvania and the State is feeling the influence of it from one end to the other. Thursday, October 14th representatives of these classes will assemble in Harrisburg in connection with the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, which meets Oct. 13-15 and hold a big demonstration in the interest of the Organized Adult Bible Movement. Governor Stuart will be present and address the evening meeting to be held in the Chestnut Street Auditorium. The building has a seating capacity of 4,000 and will be reserved strictly for members of men's classes. The representatives of women's classes will meet in one of the large churches.

The afternoon of the day will be devoted to a conference session of the delegates. Three auditoriums will be used to accommodate the audiences. The mass meeting will be preceded by a street parade in which more than 5,000 men will participate.

The railroads will run special trains for the occasion and many counties are now at work forming their delegations. Some of them have already announced the number they will take as follows: Lebanon, 500; Berks, 500; Philadelphia, 500; Fayette, 125; Westmoreland, 100; Lycoming, 100; Blair, 100; Cambria, 100. Every county will go with bands and banners. It will be a big day at the State Capital.

Among the speakers advertised are Hon. John W. Wampler, Philadelphia; Rev. David James Burrell, D. D., New York; Bishop James Henry Darlington, Harrisburg; W. C. Pearce, Chicago; Dr. Joseph Clark, Ohio, and others.

The State Association will offer four flag awards for classes showing the largest percentage of membership present and the largest aggregate mileage traveled by the delegates. The parade will be reviewed by Governor Stuart, the State Board of Directors and the invited guests.

The local committee is planning to have elaborate electric illuminations for the occasion.
O. P. Beckley, of Harrisburg, with an efficient committee is co-operating with the State Association in working out the details. The carrying out of the present plans will surpass anything of the kind ever attempted.

STOLYPIN MAKES DENIAL

Russia's Premier Says No Anti-Jewish Riots Have Occurred at Kiev.
St. Petersburg, Sept. 22.—The report that anti-Jewish riots have occurred at Kiev is officially denied at the chancellery of Premier Stolypin. The official news agency and newspapers here have no word of rioting and it is thought that the report is based on an incident which occurred at Slobodka, a suburb of Kiev, on Sept. 7. A band of fifteen members of the Reactionary league appeared on the streets of Slobodka on that day and fell upon pronouncing Jews with cries of "Here is equality for you" and began to beat them. Police quickly appeared and the reactionaries fled. There were no fatalities.

GEO. C. MARSHALL DIES OF PARALYSIS.

Widely Known Citizen Is Suddenly Stricken at Home.

HAD BEEN ILL SOME WEEKS

Was a Native of Kentucky and Came to Fayette County After Becoming Interested in the Iron Business in Pittsburg.

UNIONTOWN, Sept. 22.—George Cadwallader Marshall, a well known Democratic politician, coke operator and brick manufacturer, died in his apartment on the tenth floor of the First National Bank building at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. He was stricken with paralysis at 9:30 yesterday morning. His wife and daughter, Mrs. Marie L. Slinger and his son Stuart B. Marshall were with him when he died.

The deceased, who was a son of the late William Champe and Sarah (Myers) Marshall, natives of Kentucky, was born in Augusta, Kentucky, November 17, 1816. He was well known in Western Pennsylvania and more particularly in Fayette county. He was an active Democratic politician and was one of the delegates to the last Democratic National convention in Denver. He was frequently a county delegate and central committeeman and several times a candidate for county chairman. A member of St. Peter's Episcopal Church for some years, he was chosen a vestryman a few years ago. He was also a member of Fayette Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 228, Union Chapter, No. 165, R. A. M., of which he was past high priest and Uniontown Commandery No. 49, K. T. He served in all of the commandery offices and had been past eminent commander since 1883.

In April, 1869, Mr. Marshall made a visit to Pittsburgh and became so interested in the iron manufacturing industry that a few months later he located in Dunbar and assumed charge of the Dunbar Iron Company. Several years later Mr. Marshall and A. W. Bliss established a fire brick manufacturing plant at Dunbar, which they continued to operate for twenty years. In 1873 Messrs. Bliss and Marshall leased the Frost works, now the Percy mines and operated the plant for several years. Later they purchased the works at sheriff's sale and Mr. Marshall formed a partnership association with Mr. Bliss, A. B. De Saules and Maurice Huley. Under the name of the Percy Mining Company they continued the mining of coal and the manufacture of coke. The company was incorporated a few years afterward, with Mr. Marshall as President and Treasurer and A. W. Bliss, Secretary. Mr. Bliss and Mr. Marshall have built in the aggregate about 3,000 coke ovens in Fayette county and were the pioneers in the development of the southern field of the Connellsville coke coal. The two men purchased the Oilphant furnace in 1879, built 150 ovens, operated them for several years and sold the plant to the H. C. Frick Coke Company. They also bought the Henry W. Kyle, James Nixon and Mickey tracks of coal in Georges township, constructed 150 ovens there and subsequently sold that property to the Frick company. He was still largely interested in coke and coal when death ended his remarkably active career.

In 1873 Mr. Marshall was married to Laura E. the daughter of Dr. J. J. Bradford, a leading physician of Augusta, Kentucky. Of the four children born to that union three survive: Stuart B., a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, now head chemist of the Dunbar Furnace Company; George C. Jr., special instructor of the U. S. Army school in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and Mrs. Marie L. Slinger, wife of Dr. John S. Slinger of Greensburg. Besides his widow and three children, two brothers, Dr. Robert Marshall, of Kittanning, Pa., and Pickens Marshall of Arizona, and two sisters, Mrs. J. C. Middleton, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. John Ewing, of Pittsburgh, also survive.

The funeral services in charge of the local Masonic lodge will probably be held in St. Peter's Episcopal Church Thursday morning. The interment, which will be private, will be made in Pittsburgh.

There will be a meeting of the vestry of St. Peter's Episcopal Church today at noon to make arrangements for the funeral.

ALTOONA TO ENTERTAIN REPUBLICAN CLUBS

Twenty-third Annual Convention Will Open There on Wednesday—Formal
Opening of State Campaign.

Altoona will entertain the twenty-third annual convention of the Pennsylvania State League of Republican Clubs, September 23rd, 24th and 25th, 1909, and the big mass meeting Thursday night, September 23rd, in the Altoona Opera House will be the formal opening of the State campaign this year. The local committees of Altoona and Blair county have made ample and elaborate preparations for royally entertaining all those who attend the convention.

On account of the central location of the convention city this year, there will be delegations from all sections of the State and from practically every county. The railroads have made a flat two cent rate on round trip tickets, good going September 21st to 23rd and returning up to the 27th. This is no cheaper than mileage but obviates necessity of buying mileage book. A special train will leave Philadelphia Wednesday morning, reaching Altoona about 2 P. M., on which a much lower rate of fare is made. There will be between 250 and 300 go on this special train to the convention.

The Colonial Hotel will be convention headquarters. There are over 15 good hotels in Altoona where the various clubs will have local headquarters. Hotel reservations can be made through E. M. Jones, Esq., Altoona, Pa. Any person interested in Republicanism is invited to attend the convention.

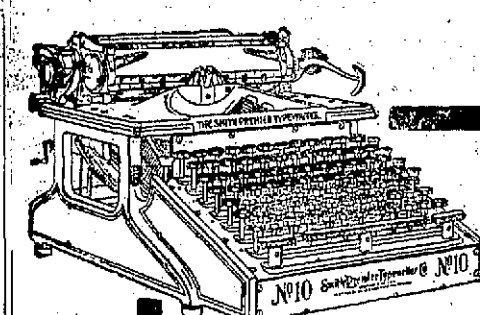

There will be a speaker of national prominence from another State to address the mass meeting Thursday night, also the candidates for Auditor General and State Treasurer, the Hon. A. M. Sisson of Erie, and the Hon. J. A. Stober of Lancaster, and others.

Among the prominent Pennsylvanians who will attend the convention and deliver an address are United States Senators Penrose and Oliver, Congressman James Francis Burke, J. Hampton Moore, John N. Reynolds and John K. Tener, Lieutenant Governor Robert S. Murphy, State Senator Langstaff of Allegheny, Speaker of Delaware and Speaker John F. Cox. In addition to these a number of Congressmen, Senators and members of the Legislature have engaged quarters for the convention dates.

The business sessions will be held Wednesday at 3 P. M. and Thursday and Friday mornings at 10 A. M. On Friday morning the election of officers for the ensuing year will occur. The candidates for the presidency will probably be Milton W. Lowry, Esq., of Scranton, and Fred W. Willard of Philadelphia. John Hays Hammond, President of the National League of Clubs, and John F. Stewart, President of the New York State League of Clubs, have been invited to attend the Altoona convention and are expected to be present.

On Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon the Altoona committee has provided delightful entertainment features for all those in attendance upon the convention.

Snapshot of President on Tour and Big Tunnel He Will Open

The great Gunnison tunnel, the first project undertaken by the United States government reclamation service, will be completed tomorrow, and President Taft will open the gates of the tunnel, turning the flow of the Gunnison river into the network of canals that will irrigate 150,000 acres of land. President Taft and his party will leave Grand Junction, Col., at 11:15 A. M. tomorrow, arriving at Montrose at 2:15 P. M. and remaining there until 10 o'clock that night. A big celebration is prepared there in his honor and to mark the installation of the tunnel. The Gunnison tunnel is in Montrose county, in the Uncompangre Valley. Work has been in progress on the project for four and a half years. The tunnel is six miles long and will have a capacity of 1,300 cubic feet of water per second. It cost $5,000,000. The lands to be irrigated are suitable for fruit growing and nearly all kinds of crops, and the water from the Gunnison river will turn a vast desert into a garden spot. This snapshot of President Taft was taken on present tour of the West.

TAFT TAKES UP TAX QUESTION.

Defends the Recent Measures Levying on Corporations.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS AT DENVER

Urges Adoption of Constitutional Amendment by States, Making Legal a Direct Income Tax, to Be Levied Only in Cases of Emergency.

Denver, Col., Sept. 22.—Making his way still further to the west, President Taft arrived in Denver and last night in the Denver auditorium, where a year ago Mr. Bryan was nominated as his opponent in the presidential race, faced a crowd of thousands that in its noisy welcome and continuing enthusiasm recalled some of the scenes of convention week.

President Taft elected to take up the corporation tax passed as a part of the Payne tariff bill and to defend it as against the proposition to impose a direct income tax which he acknowledged seemed likely to pass the senate when the corporation tax was devised as a compromise. The president strongly urged that all the states should adopt the proposed amendment to the constitution, however, to make an income tax possible in time of need.

The president declared that the corporation tax was in itself the best form of income tax that could be levied and pointed out that it contained many of the best features of the income tax law of England. In urging that the states should vote for the amendment to the constitution, permitting the levy of a direct income tax, without apportioning the proceeds among the states according to their population, the president declared it would be possible so to amend the corporation tax as to include within its scope every desired feature of an income tax except the levy upon incomes derived from actual salary and professional services. The president said he opposed a direct income tax except in cases of emergency and he believed it to be a prime fault in the federal constitution that no provision is made for a direct levy to meet war time or other extraordinary expense.

Restraint by Court Decision.
Mr. Taft declared that it was the supreme court decision declaring unconstitutional the income tax law passed by a Democratic congress some years ago that prevented the leaders in congress during the session recently closed from including in the corporation tax measure a provision for a levy upon bonds and bondholders. To tax bonds would result in the reduction of the rate of interest and hence this resulted in a direct tax upon the individual holders of the bonds and came in contact with the decision of the court that no direct tax could be levied by the national government without the result of apportionment of the proceeds among the states.

The president based his argument in favor of the corporation tax, as compared to the direct income tax, almost entirely upon the results of the income tax in England. He pointed out that the tax there is not a direct levy, such as was recently defeated in the senate only through a compromise, but that it laid the tax upon the income before it came into the hands of the individual. The English tax is levied, first, on the declared dividends of corporations, secondly, on rents before leaving the hands of the tenants, and thirdly, on the individual directly. It was found in England that a direct income tax at 10 per cent did not produce as much revenue as the present method of taxation at 5 per cent. This, he declared, illustrated the premium that the direct tax places upon perjury and concealment.

It is a question, the president declared, whether salaries and incomes from professional work should be taxed as heavily as incomes derived from investments or not taxed at all. The latter, he said, was the effect of the corporation tax.

Favored Inheritance Tax.
Mr. Taft said he had favored at first an inheritance tax but the objection that the states had preempted that field had sufficient weight to defeat the proposition.

The president continued: "Our friends, the Democrats, favored the income tax with a view to substituting it for the tariff as an income producing measure, thus maintaining the effect of the tariff in protecting the industries of the country. In other words, the passage of the income tax bill would have lent support probably to the proposition to have a tariff for revenue only and would have interfered with the protective policy to which the Republican party is pledged."

FAMOUS AVIATOR SOON TO FLY IN NEW YORK.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator who captured the world's championship cup at the Rheims meeting, arrived in the United States yesterday, and at once began preparations for the flights he is to make during the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York. Mr. Curtiss has signed contracts for flights at Governors Island and in the region of Grant's tomb, Wilbur Wright and the famous Wright aeroplane also will be seen in action during the celebration. The appearance of these two famous aviators will constitute the most spectacular features next to the naval parade that New York will offer to its thousands of guests.

WARSHIPS ARRIVE

At New York and Exchange Noisy Greetings With Each Other.

New York, Sept. 22.—A two-mile line of steel girded American warships, the largest and finest squadron of naval giants gathered anywhere in the world, dropped anchor just outside New York harbor last night. With the flagships Connecticut in the lead the main-of-war steamed through the Ambrose channel and the narrow ways today to the thunderous applause of the great forts, as the official representatives of the nation at the Hudson-Fulton celebration.

Inside the harbor they joined the vanguard of foreign ships already gathered here as the nucleus of the Hudson on dress parade next Saturday. Today there is a tumult of cannonading as greetings are exchanged between the American fighters and the French squadron, the Mexican gunboat, the Argentine training ship and the Dutch cruiser.

To augment the assemblage of fighting craft there should arrive some time today the British fleet, led by the armored cruiser Indefatigable, flying the flag of Sir Edward H. Seymour and including the armored cruisers Drake, Duke of Edinburgh and Argyle. The German warships also are expected today and the Italians as well, all of which will mean repeated salutes.

UNVEIL FULTON MEMORIAL

Exercises Held at Inventor's Birthplace in Pennsylvania.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Lancaster County Historical society unveiled a memorial to Robert Fulton in the little hamlet of Fulton House, the birthplace of the inventor, twenty miles south of this city. Among those in attendance were Governor Stuart and former Governor Pennypacker, both of whom made addresses. The occasion was made a general holiday in the lower end of the county, the schools being closed and the scholars participating in the exercises.

FIGHT DUEL IN PARLOR

Havana Editor and Cuban General in Lively Mix-Up.

Havana, Sept. 22.—A desperate duel with cavalry sabres was fought in the parlor of a private residence in Havana between Major General Enrique Loynaz del Castillo, a former congressman, and Wilfredo Fernandez, editor of El Comercio.

After several minutes of fencing General del Castillo was seriously wounded in the sword arm and was unable to continue fighting. The duel was the outcome of a sarcastic reference in El Comercio to the general, who thereupon sent a challenge to Senior Fernandez. Both men are skilled swordsmen and the duel is said to have been the most desperate fought in Havana in many years.

DYING MAN PLAYS DIRGE

Violinist Keeps Up Funeral March Till Asphyxiated.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—While illuminating his slowly asphyxiated him, Salvatore Cerrano, a violinist, fifty years old, calmly played Chopin's funeral march until, overcome by the poisonous fumes, he died. He had broken the gas fixtures in order to commit suicide.

When Salvatore Viciello, a brother musician, broke into the room he found Cerrano dead, sitting in a chair. Cerrano's lifeless left hand still held the violin, while the right was locked to the bow, with which he had caressed the strings of the instrument until life was extinct.

EXPLORER MOVED BY WELCOME

No Human Ecstasy to Compare With Heartfelt Tribute of One's Own People, Says the Brooklyn Physician—Thousands Packed Streets.

New York, Sept. 22.—Thousands of persons packed the streets in front of the Bushwick club last night eager to get a glance of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who was at table with forty-two picked friends.

Though it was understood by the thousands that, there, would be no further chance to meet the noted explorer, all the throng asked was a chance to see him when he left the clubhouse for the Waldorf-Astoria and they were perfectly willing to wait.

This loyalty without enthusiasm within the club from the friends and fellow citizens, among whom Dr. Cook has lived, so moved him that, when he rose to thank his hosts, after a Brooklyn singing society had given the noble old German hymn, "This Is God's Day," tears stood in his eyes. He has never been described as an emotional man, but no one who saw him could doubt that he was deeply moved.

"You have shown me," he said, "that it is good to go to the north pole. In returning the cheers of other peoples have been a delight, but there is no human ecstasy to compare with the heartfelt tribute of my own people. I cannot adequately express it, but it dispels in one instant all the long drawn discomforts of the Arctic quest."

To the waiting throngs outside the doctor shouted from a window: "I thank you for the honor of this cordial and musical welcome."

IN BLACK AND WHITE

Cook Says He Will Present His Proofs of Reaching North Pole.

New York, Sept. 22.—"I have come from the pole. I have brought my story and my data with me. I have not come home to enter into arguments with one man or with fifty men, but I am here to present a clear record of a piece of work over which I have a right to display a certain amount of pride."

"I am perfectly willing to abide by the final verdict on this record of competent judges. That must be the last word and that alone can satisfy me and the public. Furthermore, not only will my report be before you in black and white, but I will also bring to America human witnesses to prove that I have been to the pole."

Such is the sum and substance of the first message Dr. Frederick A. Cook brought home in person to America, answering his critics the world over.

WILL SETTLE DISPUTE FIRST

Peary to Attend No Receptions Till Controversy Is Decided.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 22.—Commander Robert E. Peary will accept no invitations to receptions and no public honors until the question of the discovery of the north pole has been decided by scientific authorities. This he made known in the following statement, which he gave out for publication:

"Acting upon the advice of General Thomas H. Hubbard and Herbert L. Bridgman, president and secretary, respectively, of the Peary Arctic club, I wish to express my thanks to friends for their kind offers and invitations and also beg to say that I have decided not to accept any invitations to receptions or any ovations until the present controversy is settled by competent authority."

Commander Peary supplemented this briefly. He was asked when the public was likely to get a decision on this subject and he replied: "I do not know, but what I have to say will not be very long delayed. Whether my statement will be issued in one week or two weeks depends on circumstances."

CONCESSIONS GRANTED

Hudson-Fulton Committee Meet Request of Aviator Curtiss.

New York, Sept. 22.—After concessions were made by the aeronautics committee of the Hudson-Fulton commission final arrangements for the flights of Glenn H. Curtiss, the Hammondsport (N. Y.) aviator during the Hudson-Fulton celebrations were made.

Mr. Curtiss held a conference with the committee at which he objected to the conditions imposed in his contract, that is, that he was to make certain specific flights before the contract price of $3,000 was paid. He said that he was unwilling to be tied down, but that he would do his utmost to make a creditable showing. With this understanding all arrangements were made and he is to begin at once to prepare for his flight from Governor's island, commencing Sept. 27 and ending Oct. 2, all flights, of course, to depend upon weather conditions.

ARCTIC EXPERT WHO IS COMING TO AID COOK.

One of the most ardent supporters of Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the contention that he reached the North Pole is Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, who was first to sail through the northwest passage. Amundsen is coming to America and will add his testimony to that of other Arctic experts in the event that Dr. Cook's achievement is investigated by the geodetic survey or some geographical society.

RUIN IN WAKE

Of Hurricane That Did Damage of Millions in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Sept. 22.—The tropical hurricane which swept the Gulf coast of Louisiana and Mississippi caused the death of at least five persons and a property loss of perhaps more than a million dollars and left New Orleans practically shut out from wire communication with the outside world for twenty-four hours. Railroad schedules are still disarranged.

Reports of property damage along the Gulf coast are meagre, because of crippled wire service. No loss of life outside of New Orleans has yet been reported, but overflowing waters, falling trees and timbers and a possibility of papies being caught unaware in small craft make it almost certain that the death list will be added to. The actual property damage to New Orleans will exceed $250,000.

Over 400 passengers, including many women and children, are still tied up at Chef Menteur without anything to eat, and unless relief is shipped there immediately, it is asserted, the situation will become serious. A relief train and a small steamboat have been sent to the scene.

Zabriske Must Return to Get Legacy.

A PLEASANT WAY TO CURE CATARRH.

Poor deluded victims! Continually sprinkling and spraying and stomach dosing!

What are you doing it for? Trying to kill the catarrh germs? Might just as well try to kill a cat with fresh milk.

Sticking a piece of chewing gum in the upper left hand corner of the right ear would slaughter just as many germs.

You can't kill the germs that cause catarrh unless you get where they are. You can get where the germs are by breathing Hyomel, the powerful yet soothing antiseptic, which is prepared especially to kill catarrh germs.

Just breathe it in, that's all. It gives joyful relief in five minutes. It is guaranteed by Dr. A. Clarke to cure catarrh or money back.

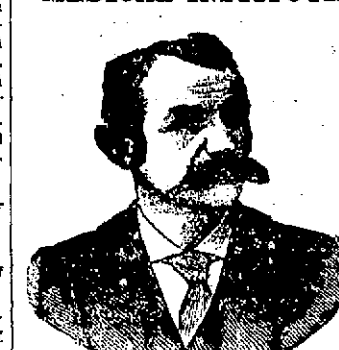

It is sold by leading druggists everywhere. A complete outfit, including inhaler, costs $1.00. Extra bottles, 50 c. Cures sore throat, coughs and colds.

"I take especial pride in recommending Hyomel to asthmatic sufferers, as I know by experience that it is a remedy that cures. I have not since using Hyomel had any recurrence of asthma."—Mrs. Wm. Burton, Owosso, Mich., June 22, 1909.

MI-ONA Cures indigestion

The Lure of the Mask

By HAROLD MAC GRATH

Copyright, 1909, by the Babbs-Merrill Co.

"Trust me, signor."

They landed at the custom house at 2 in the afternoon and passed without any difficulty.

Hillard obtained rooms pleasantly situated looking out upon the sparkling bay. Giovanni began at once to unpack the trunk, happy enough to have something to occupy him till after dark, when he determined to venture forth. The dreaded carabinieri had paid him not the slightest attention. So far he was as safe as though he were in New York.

It was yet so early in the day that the two young men strolled forth in quest of light adventure. Besides, Merrithew was very eager to find some Roman and Florence newspapers. The American Comic Opera company was somewhere north. They found stationed outside the hotel a rosy checked cabby who answered to the name of Tomasso, or Tomaso, as the Neapolitans generally drop the final. He carried a bright red lap robe and blanket, spoke a little English and was very proud of the accomplishment. He was rather disappointed, however, when Hillard bargained with him in his own tongue. Tomasso shook his fingers under Hillard's nose, and Hillard returned the compliment. Finally Tomasso compromised on 1 lira 50 centesimi (50 cents) per hour, with 50 centesimi (10 cents) as a pourboire (tip). Crack, crack! Down the hill they went, as if a thousand devils were after them.

"By George," gasped Merrithew, clutching his seat, "the fool will break our necks."

Tomasso grinned and cracked his whip. He did not understand the word slowly in his own tongue or in any other, at least not till he reached the shops. A dozen times on the Via Roma Merrithew yelled that they would lose a wheel. But Tomasso knew the game.

Merrithew had never seen such shops. Court, court wherever the eye roamed—where did they get it all, and to whom did they sell it? Spectacles, dresses, brooches, carved and uncarved—were there women enough in the world to buy these things?

"If I had a wife"—he began.

"Well?"

"I'd feel devilish sorry for her husband at this moment."

"But isn't the color great?" said Hillard. It was good to be in Naples again.

"I never saw so many kids," Merrithew finally observed. "So many dirty ones," he added. "Hered would have had his work cut out for him here. Now where can we get some newspapers? I must know where she is."

At the bookshop in the piazza they found the Rome and Florence papers. Hillard went through them thoroughly, but nowhere did he see anything relative to the doings of the American Comic Opera company.

"Not a line, Dan."

"But there must be something in the Florence paper. They should be playing there yet."

"Nothing. These papers are two weeks old."

Merrithew stared blankly at the sheet. "I should like to know what it means."

"We will write to the consulate in Rome. If there has been any trouble he will certainly notify us. I'll write tonight. Now, here's Cook's next door. We'll ask if there is any mail for Kitty Killigrew."

But there wasn't, nor had there been, and the name was not on the forwarding books.

"Looks as if your Kitty were the needle in the haystack."

"Cut it!" savagely. Pictures and churches and museums were all well enough, but Merrithew wanted Kitty Killigrew above all the treasures of earth.

When they turned down to the Via Caracciolo, with the full sweep of the magnificent bay at their feet, Merrithew's disappointment softened somewhat. It was the fashionable hour. The band was playing near by in the Villa Nazionale. Americans were everywhere. Occasionally a stately princess or countess dashed by inert and listless against the cushions and invariably accompanied them the men if they were husbands. And even more listless, and beguiling of all sorts and descriptions hovered the "very great and rich Americans."

They were nearly a week in Naples. They saw the galleries, the museums and churches; they saw underground Naples; they made the weary and useful ascent of Vesuvius; and Merrithew added a new spell to his collection every hour. Poppoli by moonlight, however, was worth a thousand ordinary dreams, and Merrithew, who had abundant imagination, but no art with which to express it, happily or unhappily, saw Lytton's story unfold in all its romantic splendor.

They lingered at Amalfi three days and dreamed away the hours under the white pergola. Merrithew was loath to leave, but Hillard was for going to Sorrento, for which his heart was always longing.

A spring rain fell as they took the incline, and it followed them over the mountains and down into Sorrento. They finally drew up in the courtyard of the Hotel de la Sirena, and the long ride was at an end. The little garden was white and pink with roses and camellias, and the tubed mandarin was heavy with fruit.

"And this is Sorrento," said Merrithew, his thought traveling back to his own bleak country, where winter is so long and summer is so short.

Their rooms were on the northeast corner, on the first floor, and from the windows they could look down upon the marina piazza, and the tideless sea, a sheer 150 feet below. Every body welcomed the Signor Hillard. The hotel was his and everything and everybody in it.

Later, when they were alone, Hillard began to explain.

"They remember my father. He used to live like a prince in Sorrento. Every time I come here I do the best I can to keep the luster to his name. Tomorrow I shall point out to you the villa in which I was born. A Russian princess owns it now."

"A real life princess?" said Merrithew. "Is she beautiful?"

"Once upon a time," returned Hillard, laughing. "But she is not."

Giovanni did not return till late that night, and on the morrow Hillard questioned him.

"I have been to see a cousin," said Giovanni, "who lives on the way to El Deserto."

"Ah! So you have a cousin here?"

"Yes, signor."

How old he looked, poor devil! Hillard had not taken particular notice of him during the past week's excursion. Giovanni had aged ten years since they landed.

"And was this cousin glad to see you? And is he to be trusted?"

"Both, signor. He had some news. She—the girl—is a dancer in a Paris cafe."

"Would you like me to give you the necessary money to go to Paris and bring her back to the Sabine hills?" Hillard asked softly.

"I shall go to Paris, signor—after."

"Does he like his name?" Hillard had never till this moment asked this question.

"I know it. That is sufficient. He is high, signor, very high, yet I shall reach him. If I told you his name—"

"There would be the possibility of my warning him."

"That is why I hesitate."

"You are a Catholic, Giovanni?"

Giovanni smiled that he was.

"Does not the God of all Catholics, of all Christians, in God—does he not say that vengeance is his and that he will repay?"

"But there are so many of us, signor, so many of us small and of slight importance, that, likely enough, God, with all his larger cares, has not the time to remember us. What may happen to him in the hereafter does not concern me, for he will certainly be in the purgatory of the rich and in the purgatory of the poor. It must be now, now!"

"Go your own way," said Hillard, dismissing him. "I shall never urge you again."

Giovanni gone, Hillard leaned against the pavement. The sun was bright this morning, and the air was clear. He could see Naples distinctly. Below, the fishermen and their wives, their bare feet plowing in the wet sands, were drawing in the nets, swaying their bodies gracefully.

And then Merrithew burst in upon him wildly excited and furnished the hotel register.

"Look at this!" he cried breathlessly. He hung the book on the table and pointed with shaking finger.

Hillard came forward, and this is what he saw:

Thomas O'Malley

James Smith

Arthur Worth

La Signorina Capricciola

Kitty Killigrew

Am. Comic Opera Co., N. Y.

"Kitty has been here!"

"Perfectly true. But I wonder—"

"Wonder about what?" asked Merrithew.

"Who La Signorina Capricciola is. Whimsical, indeed. She must be the mysterious prima donna."

Hillard studied the easy frowning band and ran his fingers through his hair thoughtfully.

"What is it?" asked Merrithew curiously.

"I am wondering where I have seen that handwriting before."

Another fortnight found the pair back in Naples after spending a week on Capri. At the hotel they found a batch of mail. There was a letter which held particular interest to Merrithew. It was from the consul at Rome, a reply to Hillard's inquiries regarding the American Comic Opera company.

"Well now and out where your charming Kitty is," Hillard said, breaking the seal.

But they didn't. On the contrary, the writer hadn't the slightest idea where the play actors were or had gone. They had opened a two weeks' engagement at the Teatro Quirino. There had been a good house on the opening night. The remainder of the week did not show the sale of a hundred tickets. The American manager had shown neither foresight nor common sense, and his backer withdrew his support. The percentage demanded by the managers in Florence, Genoa, Milan and Venice was so exorbitant (although they had agreed to a moderate term in the beginning) that it would have been nothing short of foolhardiness to try to fill the bookings. The singing of the prima donna,

CHAPTER IX.

A TANGLED WEB.

SANFORD knew how to order a dinner, and so by the time that Merrithew had emptied his second glass of Burgundy and his first of champagne, he was in the haze of golden confidence. He would find Kitty, and when he found her he would find her heart as well.

"Say, Jack," said Sanford, "what did you mean by that fool cable anyhow?"

Hillard had been patiently waiting for an opening of this sort. "And what did you mean by 'hoaxing me'?"

"Hoaxing you?"

"That's the word. I was in your house that night. I was there as sure as I am here tonight."

"Well, am I crazy or is it Jack?"

"Sometimes," said Mrs. Sanford, "when you put the chauffeur in the tonneau I'm inclined to think that it is you."

Hillard looked straight into the placid gray eyes of his hostess. Very slowly one of the white lids drooped. His heart bounded.

"But really," continued Sanford seriously, "unless you bribed the caretaker you could not possibly have entered the house. You have been dreaming."

"Very well, then. It begins to look as if I had. It was apparent to Hillard that Sanford was not in his wife's confidence in all things. He also saw the wisdom of dropping the subject with at the table.

They took coffee and liqueur in the glass enclosed balcony. Hillard found a quiet nook not far from the lift. He saw that Mrs. Sanford's chair was placed so that she could get a good view of the superb night. He sat down himself, slipped his liqueur moderately, drank his coffee and as she nodded lighted a cigarette.

"Well," she said, smiling into his brown eyes. She was rather fond of Hillard, a gentleman always and one of excellent taste. There was never any wearisome innuendo in his wit nor suggestion in his stories.

"You deliberately winked at me," he began.

"I deliberately did."

"Sanford is in the dark. I suspect as much."

"Regarding the wink?"

"Regarding the mysterious woman who occupied your house by your express authority and who rode the hunter in the park?"

"Was there ever a more beautiful picture?" sweeping her hands toward the city.

"The beauty of it will last several hours yet. Who and what was she?"

"I wish I could find you a wife. You would make a good husband."

"Thank you. I am even willing, with your assistance, to prove it. Who was she, and how came she in your house?"

"She wished that favor and that her presence in New York should not be known. Now describe to me exactly what happened. I am worrying about the plot and the silver."

He laughed. "And you will meet me halfway?"

"I promise to tell you all I dare."

"There is a mystery?"

"Yes. So begin with your side of it."

He was a capital story teller. He recounted the adventure in all its color—the voice under his window, the perfume in the paper, the interchange of letters, the extraordinary dinner, the mask in the envelope. She followed him with breathless interest.

"Charming, charming!" She clasped her hands. "And how well you tell it! You have told it just as it happened."

"Just as it happened?" confounded for a moment.

"Exactly. I have had a letter—two, in fact. You did not see her face?"

"Only the chin and mouth. But if I ever meet her again I shall know her by her teeth."

"Two lower ones are gone. Otherwise they would be beautiful."

"Poor man. You have builded your house upon the sands. Her teeth are perfect. She has fooled you."

"But I saw with these two eyes!"

"There is a preparation, when the atypical people use a kind of gun. She mentioned the trick. Isn't she clever?"

"Yet I shall know her hair," doggedly.

She put her hands swiftly to her head. "Now, you have known me for years. What is the color of my hair?"

"Why, it is blond."

"Nothing of the kind. It is auburn. If you cannot tell mine, how will you tell hers?"

"I shall probably run after every red-headed woman in Europe till I find her," humorously.

"Our ears never deceive half so often as our eyes."

"Her face is not scarred, is it?"

"Scarred?" indignantly. "She is as beautiful as Raphael, as lovely as a Bouguereau. If I were a man I should

JOHNSON'S BODY LIES IN STATE.

Thousands View Remains of Minnesota's Late Governor.

HIS DEATH DEEPLY MOURNED

This Afternoon Services Will Be Conducted at State Capitol and Tomorrow Interment Will Be at St. Peter, Gov. Johnson's Birthplace.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 22.—The body of the late Governor John A. Johnson lies in state today in the rotunda of the state capitol, guarded by four commissioned officers of the national guard, four sergeants, four corporals and four privates. Thousands passed before the bier and viewed the remains of the late chief executive.

This afternoon Rev. J. J. Lawler, chaplain of the governor's staff, will conduct services in the capitol. Tomorrow the body will be taken to St. Peter, where funeral services will be held under Presbyterian auspices, with Rev. R. E. Clarke in charge. Interment will be in the family cemetery at St. Peter, where Governor Johnson is to be buried beside his mother. Honorary escorts will be state officers, the St. Paul lodge of Elks and the Knights of Pythias, who will accompany the special train to St. Peter.

Remarkable Tribute to Johnson. One of the most remarkable tributes ever paid to the memory of a public man in Minnesota was accorded the late Governor Johnson. From the hour that the governor's death was first publicly announced by tolling bells in Rochester, all usual public activity was abandoned. All banks, stores and offices were closed and buildings are draped in black and purple crepe.

Governor Johnson's body was escorted to a special train for St. Paul by a throng of citizens from every walk of life. On the train were Mrs. Johnson, a few of her personal friends, state officers and friends of the late governor. As the cortege passed down the street leading to the railway station the escort lined up on either side with bare heads and the hundreds of people around the depot showed a like respect. The mayor and councilmen acted as pallbearers. All the way along the route to St. Paul flags were at half mast and buildings draped with crepe. At Zumbrota the entire population of the town seemed to be at the station. A touching feature was the appearance of a large number of school children lined up along the platform, each provided with the national colors, which were pointed downward. Similar receptions were accorded the special train at other points along the route.

Adolph O. Eberhart was sworn in as governor of the state of Minnesota by Chief Justice Stuart of the supreme court. According to the constitution the lieutenant governor became governor immediately following the death of Governor Johnson. The installation of Governor Eberhart was without ceremony or incident.

Taft's Message of Condolence. Linton, Col., Sept. 22.—President Taft sent the following telegram to Mrs. Johnson:

"My heart goes out in sympathy for you in your present deep sorrow. Governor Johnson was a national figure of great ability and great capacity for usefulness to his country as he had already demonstrated, and his loss will be felt far beyond the state that loves him so well. I sincerely hope that the fond remembrance in which he is and always will be held in Minnesota and elsewhere and the record of his high and valued public service may come as a boon to you in your sorrow and may in time lighten the burden you are now called upon to bear."

Bryan's Tribute. Douglas, Ark., Sept. 22.—William J. Bryan, when apprised of the death of Governor Johnson, said: "I have just heard with deep sorrow of the death of Governor Johnson. His career illustrates the possibilities of American citizenship and his death is a great loss to our party and the country. His civic virtues won for him a host of admirers and his personal qualities converted his admirers into friends."

GOLD PLATE IN SKULL

Used to Patch Up Fracture, Although Bone Penetrated Man's Brain. New York, Sept. 22.—Everett P. Day, after hovering with a fractured skull near death for weeks, is a well man. He has, however, a large gold plate in his skull. Day is forty-five years of age.

Mr. Day fell from a car on July 28, was picked up unconscious and taken to the Haelein hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from a fracture at the base of the skull, an injury that almost invariably proves fatal. For three days he remained unconscious and his relatives were told that there was practically no chance for his recovery except by means of a difficult and delicate operation. A piece of bone had penetrated the brain and near by was a blood clot.

NEW YORK PRIMARY.

Rival Bands of Tammany Leaders Exchange Shots.

New York, Sept. 22.—After a day of hundreds of arrests for disorders at the polls the most serious conflict incident to primaries throughout Greater New York occurred at a polling place in Second avenue just before closing time. The rival bands of Tammany leaders clashed, forty shot were exchanged and three men were wounded, one of them fatally.

The victims are Frederick Lucas, twenty-six years old, a pugilist; John S. Butcher, twenty-three, an engineer, and Christopher Wright, twenty-two, a clerk. Lucas will die. Several arrests were made, but it will be difficult to fix the blame on any one man.

VANDERBILTS TO PART

Separation Agreement Is Signed by Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Jr.

New York, Sept. 22.—William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., donor of the Vanderbilt cup for automobile races, and his wife, formerly Miss Virginia Fair, of San Francisco, have signed a separation agreement. Mrs. Vanderbilt is now returning from Europe to America with her two children, Muriel and William K. Vanderbilt III.

It is expected that the separation will be formally announced as soon as Mrs. Vanderbilt reaches New York. Efforts by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, mother of Mrs. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Herman Geisicks, sister of Mrs. Vanderbilt, to avert the separation were without success.

KILLED WITH ONE BLOW

Convict Hits Fellow Inmate With Wagon Crossbar.

Tifton, Ga., Sept. 22.—Charles Loke, a convict on the Tifton chain gang, was killed with one blow while seated at the breakfast table by Albert White, a fellow convict.

Humming a tune, White walked quietly up behind Loke. He held behind his back the bickery crossbar of a wagon. He brought it down with all his might. Loke was killed instantly. White had no chance to escape.

MORE CARS RUN

No Interference by Omaha Strikers. Poorly Patronized.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 22.—Although many more cars were run on all lines of the Omaha and Council Bluffs Street Railway company today than on any day since the strike began, no cars or imported crews were interfered with.

The cars have not been very well patronized, either because the public sympathizes with the strikers or fears that violence may develop.

ELEMENTS THAT MEAN SUCCESS.

Harmony, Confidence, Enthusiasm Shown by Republicans of State.

PRESIDENT'S CLARION CALL

Importance of Party Solidarity Emphasized and Insurgents Rebuked. Nation's Head Goes to People to Confer With Them on Questions.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Harmony, confidence and enthusiasm are the cheerful and winning elements most conspicuous in the Republican campaign now in progress in this State. The enthusiasm and earnestness already manifested this early in the campaign borders closely upon the patriotism usually attending a national contest. Col. Wesley R. Andrews, the Republican State chairman, says the Republicans of Pennsylvania are anxious to put a big majority for their ticket this year because of the effect it will have on the country; that they propose Pennsylvania shall thus emphasize her satisfaction over the tariff revision work performed at the recent session of Congress; that they recall that in the tariff debate Senators La Follette, Dooliver, Cummins and others who opposed the Payne bill, warned those who supported it that they would "hear from the people" at the next election, and now Pennsylvania Republicans propose to make themselves heard by voting in a way that shall attest to the satisfaction they feel over the opening of idle mills and the inauguration of what every indication points to as an indefinite period of general prosperity.

Col. Andrews speaking further along this line said: "Pennsylvania's Republican Senators and Representatives performed a tremendous service for their State at the recent session of Congress in securing the sort of tariff revision the labor and capital of Pennsylvania demanded, and the people are going to endorse their action by voting strong for the Republican ticket at the coming election."

President William H. Taft, the accepted head of the victorious Republican army, is making a triumphal journey from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again, and is receiving the honor and homage due his exalted office from the whole people. A proud, contented nation is inspired by his dignified yet wholly democratic spirit, and in one harmonious cheer the whole people wish him and his party the abundant success so richly merited.

President Taft's opening speech delivered at Boston, at the commencement of his 33,000-mile trip, outlined his reasons for making it. He wants to meet the people face to face, to see them and talk with them, thus gaining a more intimate knowledge of conditions. He wishes to inform them as to the policies of his administration. He finds certain westerners advocating a contest between the East and the West for the domination of the country. He deplores all this. He wants peace. He reasons that this is one great Nation and that it cannot thrive as it should unless there can be unity between the sections. He would have the people, for instance, study the currency question and get together. He would not have one State fighting against another State over the currency, nor one faction tearing at the throat of another faction, but in perfect good order he would have a currency measure agreed upon.

Nor would he have the country further aroused over the tariff question. He realizes that we cannot be at the revision business all of the time, and that for the present, the existing bill ought to be allowed to stand. While he does not contemplate another revision of the tariff during his administration, at the same time he proposes to employ the foreign tariff board in making investigation upon which a revision may, when demanded, be made. What the President said at the home of Representative James A. Tawney, of Minnesota, who has been threatened with defeat because he voted for the Republican tariff bill, left no room to question what the President's position with respect to the tariff is. Speaking broadly, the President in that talk stood out in all the strength of his commanding position as the head of the nation, and vouched for the quality of tariff revision with which the Republican party, of which he is also the head, had redeemed its campaign promises. It was a great speech and one not to be misunderstood. The President said:

"What I promised was that there should be many decreases and that in some few things increases would be found to be necessary; but that on the whole I conceived that the change of conditions would make the revision necessarily downward and that I contend, has been the result of the Payne bill. I did not agree, nor did the Republican party agree, that we would reduce rates to such a point as to reduce prices by the introduction of foreign competition. That is what the free traders desired. That is what the revenue tariff reformers desired, but that is not what the Republican party wished to bring about."

There are other great questions that need attention and the President has shown that he intends to take them up in that greatest of tribunals, the hearts and minds of the people. He has made it plain thus far in his trip that corporate business must be conducted within the law. He has declared anew his belief in organized labor and congratulated the leaders of the movement that "they have set their faces like flint against the doctrines of Socialism." There are to be amendments to the interstate commerce and anti-trust laws if the President can have his way, but in seeking to force honesty in business affairs he aims at "nothing revolutionary, nothing disturbing to legitimate business," but the laws have got to be obeyed, nevertheless.

The President evidently desires it to be understood that this administration does not intend to stretch the Constitution nor break the law in trying to enforce the law. It will rely upon the law to maintain its policies, and if the law is not strong enough, why, we will make it stronger. In brief, it is beginning to be understood that Taft's ideas are, not so greatly at variance with those of Roosevelt, only less excitable methods are to be pursued.

The President has on this trip emphasized the importance of party solidarity, applauded regularly and rebuked the insurgent element which has been attempting to spread the gospel of rule by minority. Thus, almost at the very outset of his notable trip he has not only performed a great public service in defining what tariff revision means and pointing out what it has effected, but he has issued a clarion call to loyal Republicans everywhere to surrender personal predilections in order to accomplish the more important work of the party and make it an effective agency for the general welfare. Harmony, confidence and enthusiasm are, but the legitimate children of such a doctrine and such political conditions as follow the observance of the precepts laid down by the President, and which, it is to be remembered, form the corner-stone and structure itself of the Republican organization in Pennsylvania, and success is the only possible result of such a planning situation.

What a contrast is presented in comparing the trip President Taft is making and the receptions he is accorded, with the wanderings of one William Jennings Bryan, the acknowledged head of the Democratic party. He too is making tours, but they are in no sense triumphal, rather they are expeditions with treacherous and selfish purposes, with spite as the spurting motive. With his eye firmly fixed upon another presidential nomination at the hands of the Democracy in 1912, Mr. Bryan aims to secure a stranglehold on the weary and decrepit Democracy and as a preliminary he seeks to kill off opposition by brutally assaulting possible opponents and driving them, bag and baggage, out of their party.

Mr. Bryan started his bandit methods at the last Democratic national convention when the regular Democratic organization of Pennsylvania was simply kicked out of that gathering. At that time the Democratic leaders of this State were openly insulted and humiliated, and notified in no uncertain way to keep off the Democratic preserves which were proclaimed as Mr. Bryan's personal possessions. Mr. Bryan's latest exhibition of domineering bossism was in Texas a few days ago when he criticized and challenged Senator Bailey because the latter repudiated the doctrine of free raw materials, and when he told the Democrats of that State that unless they promptly abandoned their political idols of other days, reformed their political convictions and meekly followed him, they must get out of the Democratic party for good and all. Discord, discontent and defeat come from such conditions. Whatever Bryan's real or fancied hold upon the affections and confidence of the mass of Democrats may be, he is riding to a fall when he undertakes such a program as he

There Is a Great Rush at Union Supply Company Stores.

The attractive new Autumn Styles for Women and Misses are creating a big rush of business. The extensive varieties in the Dry Goods Departments and the very reasonable prices are pleasing lots of Women and Children and already making it necessary for us to duplicate some lines. The better time to buy Fall goods is early in the season when the stocks are full and the varieties unbroken. According to the rush we are having now it is very evident that our customers mostly think that way.

There are some very sensible styles in Women's Shoes just opened up for Fall and Winter wear, made expressly to our order. Be sure and see them before you buy.

has endeavored to force upon the Texas. Senator George T. Oliver made a decided hit with the farming element of this Commonwealth with what he said on the occasion of his appearance at the annual exhibition of the Patrons of Husbandry in Center county a few days ago. Senator Oliver spoke in part as follows: "I for one believe that we should not legislate as to what we shall eat so long as our food is not adulterated and made dangerous to health. If anybody wishes to buy and eat an imitation of butter, let him do so. I for one prefer the product of the cow prepared in a churn. I strongly favor the rigid enforcement of legislation for the prevention of the sale of imitations of butter unless the same are so marked that the innocent purchaser may not be defrauded."

PRESIDENT TAFT FOR CONSERVATION

Headquarters of the New Association Will Be Located in New York City.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The launching of the new National Conservation Association was the result of conferences during the summer with President Taft and numerous other conferences between President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, President of the Conservation League of America, and others who have been conspicuous in advocating the conservation of the natural resources of the United States. They include James J. Garfield, ex-Secretary of the Interior, Charles L. Pack, a member of the National Conservation Commission appointed by President Roosevelt, B. N. Baker of Baltimore, Henry J. Stimson, ex-United States District Attorney and now a prominent Republican candidate for Mayor of New York, John F. Buse of Chicago, and others.

The headquarters of the new association where the great work of organizing as a popular movement will be carried on in New York under the active direction of President Eliot. It is believed that the membership will soon run into the hundreds of thousands. That such an organization is needed has been shown by the letters which have poured into the office of President Fisher of the Conservation League of America, a combination of organizations not open to popular membership. To make membership open to any man, woman or child in the United States, the constitution of the association provides: "Each member shall pay annual dues of two dollars. Each member who makes an additional contribution shall be known as a 'contributing member.' Members who contribute one thousand dollars or more shall be known as 'patrons.' Any member may become a life member by the payment of one hundred dollars for that purpose. Life members shall be relieved from the obligation to pay annual dues."

A Frank Estimate. To many persons who are not actors the stage seems a delightful and fascinating place. In a book called "The Actress" Louise Closser Hale, herself an actress, tells some of her experiences with girls who envy her her profession. One day one of them from behind a counter in a shop said, "I should have went on the stage."

"She evidently wanted to talk, and I strove to be interested," says Miss Hale.

"But see how tired I am," I said to her. "I have to work very hard as it is, and I had to work much harder to gain what little recognition I have had."

"Oh, yes," she responded, completely gazing at herself in a mirror. "But, you see, I have talent."

This is Positively the Best Suit Value We Have Shown

And this Statement is the Absolute Truth.

They are handsomely tailored and very stylish suits, and they have just arrived in time for an enthusiastic welcome.

In the First Place they are modern to a degree; the coat cut in the new 44-inch model with ten-inch vents headed by buttons.

It is a semi-tight model, having plain tailored sleeves finished at the cuff with two buttons. They are lined with a superb quality of satin. The collar is the plain notched mannish collar so much in vogue this fall.

The materials are Herring-Bone Worsteds, Bedford Cord and Tailored Worsteds. The colors are Navy, Green, Grey and Serves.

In the Second Place these suits are easily a $25 value in every respect of tailoring, material and style. We have just fifty of them to sell at $18.50.

$18.50

Fifty women can start the season with a snappy stylish up-to-the-minute suit and have $6.50 left from the $25 she meant to pay and she'll have just as much satisfaction from this suit as many are being sold today. It is a wonderful bargain value.

New Silks Open the Autumn With Marvelous Sights.

You could not describe a beautiful sunset to a person who had always been blind. Well, it's almost as difficult to tell you of the beauty of this array of new autumn silks.

Color harmonies that go back to the Armenians designs, that trace their origin to the crude efforts of the ancients.

There have the makers sought and gathered inspiration for as rich and radically different silks as ever Connellsville has ever looked upon. There are taffetas, messalines, crepe de chine and fancy silks or all descriptions.

We direct your special attention to a 36 inch black taffeta at $9c. It is of exceptional quality, far beyond what you will expect to be shown at so little a price.

The showing is broad and comprehensive, far surpassing any of our previous displays.
